South by Southwest Music Festival

March 9-18, 2007

How does a band stand out among the thousands of performers at one of the world's largest showcases for new music? Riverboat Gamblers (far right) didn't just play to the rafters; they played on them. "I had bronchitis, so that probably happened in some sort of bronchial detirium," says singer Mike Wiebe. "I figured I might not live anyway, so what the hell?"
